The China Shop's Excuse for Existence

Fifty years ago the crockery business in the U. S. was of small importance. Every general store gave it a wee little corner.

Families who could afford fancy china were few and those who cared for it fewer still. Plain white was the prevailing table ware and art pottery was heresay to the majority.

Today every woman wants to know all about the china and pottery she buys; where it is made and who makes it. It amounts to a passion with her.

There are hundreds of makes and brands. It requires intelligent sales people to explain the details. You can't expect children to know about these things. They don't. We are still doing business at the old stand.
